

DENBY WON'T RESIGN UNDER FIRE

CHAIRMAN OF LEAGUE SHIES AT NEW PLAN

Church Not For League Declaring Itself Third Party At Convention

OPPOSES INGERSON PLAN

Believes That State Convention Here February 6 Should Nominate

The plan to be proposed to the Nonpartisan League state convention here on February 6 under which the Nonpartisan League would constitute a distinct third party in the state is opposed by W. J. Church of York, state chairman of the league. The proposal voiced by Ralph Ingerson and the Burke county leaguers was told to Mr. Church by Ingerson.

Mr. Church believes that if the league makes itself a third party it must change its name, which he holds would be inopportune at this time. He also believes the majority of the leaguers are "progressive Republicans" and that the action proposed by Senator Ingerson would leave Senators Ladd and Frazier, nominal Republicans, in a peculiar position.

The majority of us in the Nonpartisan League, I believe, are there because we thought we had to have an organization to obtain remedial measures," said Mr. Church, "and at heart are progressive Republicans. I would not be surprised in the next few years to see such a general agreement on state issues that the division there would be largely what it was many years ago.

"I believe it is unwise to make a switch in the league's plan of action at this time. If a third party were created it would be necessary to change the name to something more comprehensive as a distinct political party. If later it seems that the league should make this change it can be made."

Senator Church also favors the league state convention nominating candidates for state office in the convention on February 6. He said he had talked with Senator Ingerson and did not agree with him.

Meanwhile discussion continues as to possible candidates for office with Nonpartisan League endorsement. A likely slate, as seen by local league circles, is:

Governor—A. G. Sorlie, Grand Forks.

Lieutenant Governor—Walter Madcock, Mountrail county.

Secretary of State—John Andrews, Cass county.

Treasurer—E. G. Larson of Aneta or C. A. Fisher of Valley City.

Attorney General—T. H. H. Thoresen, Dunn Center.

Commissioner of Agriculture and Labor—B. F. Baker, Renville county.

Auditor—D. C. Poindexter.

Congressman, 2nd district—W. J. Church.

Railroad Commissioners—Incumbents.

F. A. Vogel of Coleharbor will announce formally this week, it is understood, that he is not a candidate for endorsement for state senate.

He has been mentioned in this connection.

DR. KNIGHT IN CITY TO TAKE NEW POSITION

Dr. F. M. Knight, who is to be sanitary engineer for the state department of health and to have charge of the Bismarck branch laboratory, has arrived here to begin his work.

Dr. Knight who was recommended by the International Health Board, came from Rhode Island where he has been engaged in health work.

He will have an office in the state department of health at the capital. The laboratory location, in the Bismarck bank building, will not be changed.

The total appropriation for the branch laboratory has been doubled, now being $5,581 annually.

While Fall is sick in Washington, Sinclair is in E. P. Senator Walsh of Montana has been a leader in the demand for investigation of the lease and Archie Roosevelt, a vice-president of one of the Sinclair companies, created a sensation by resigning because "he had a name to uphold."

WHIRL OF SOCIAL LIFE BLAMED BY BANK HEAD FOR DAUGHTER'S SUICIDE

W. P. G. Harding, Head of Federal Reserve Bank in Boston, Says He Had Warned Daughter Against Late Hours and Cigarette Smoking—Name Linked With Washington Man

Boston, Jan. 29.—The whirl of social life, dancing and cigarettes, resulting finally in a nervous breakdown, are blamed by W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, for the death of his daughter, Margaret Elliott, 28, who committed suicide Saturday.

Governor Harding, in a statement last night, made public the circumstances of Miss Harding's death which had been withheld since Saturday when a medical examiner reported: "Cause of death hemorrhage to be investigated."

He said his daughter since leaving school several years ago had devoted herself to social activities to such an extent that a few months ago her health had become seriously impaired and that she had worn her continuously against late hours and cigarette smoking. Last week Governor Harding said Miss Harding told him that she was suffering from a breakdown.

Miss Harding shot herself late Saturday with her father's revolver which she had found hidden in a bureau drawer.

Stanley Hawkes, head of the Bureau of Information of the State Department who hurried to Boston after receiving a special delivery letter from Miss Harding written shortly before her death, returned to Washington last night and did not attend the funeral. He is engaged to another girl, it is understood.

Governor Harding said in his statement: "Today was the first time I ever heard my daughter's name linked with Hawkes. I told this fellow to go back to Washington, that there was nothing that he could do here."

MAKE PROGRESS AT OIL WELL

Marmarth, N. D., Jan. 29.—The double crew started work boring out the water at the deep test well being drilled seventeen miles southwest of Marmarth and it is expected that sometime today they will start on the work of drilling out the cement. When this is completed, the new string of 65-8 inch casing will be run, which will probably take three or four days, providing the weather moderates again. Then the drill will be sent on its way down to the first of the Dakota stands.

FIRST GUN TOTING CASE

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 29.—The first trial to be held in Grand Forks county under the 1923 gun law, will take place here today when Clarence Mulane will be arraigned. A pistol is said to have been found in his car during a raid made by the authorities some two months ago.

LIVESTOCK ON DAKOTA FARMS IN BIG GAINS

U. S. Agricultural Statistician Shows Marked Increase in Industry

SHEEP, HOGS INCREASE

30,000 More Milk Cows Reported on Farms Than a Year Ago, by Diamond

Increasing interest in the dairy, sheep and hog industries on the part of North Dakota farmers is evidenced in the inventory gains made during the past year, which closed with 85,000 more hogs on farms, 30,000 more milk cows, and 44,000 more sheep compared with the numbers on farms when the year opened, according to J. G. Diamond, Agricultural Statistician for the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics, Grand Forks, in a report on estimated numbers and value of livestock on farms in North Dakota as of date January 1, 1924, compared with these items as of date January 1, 1923. The report which excludes a negligible proportion of livestock held in cities and villages places present numbers of livestock in the state and inventory changes from a year ago as follows: Horses, 781,000 head, a loss of 10,000; mules, 8,000 head, no change from a year ago; milk cows 538,000 head, a gain of 30,000; cattle other than milk cows, 806,000 head, loss of 8,000; sheep, 254,000 head, a gain of 14,000; hogs, 651,000 head a gain of 85,000. The total estimated value of all livestock on farms due partly to lower valuations per head is placed by the report at $8,257,000, compared with $9,129,000 on January 1, 1923. The report in full follows:

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT FUND BOOSTED

Supply Bill For Two Departments Carried Three-Quarters of Billion

Washington, Jan. 29.—Nearly three quarters of a billion dollars carried in the annual supply bill for the treasury and postoffice department reported by the house appropriations committee today. The exact amount is $729,858,451, an increase of $184,766,889 over total appropriations for the two departments for the current fiscal year but $5,147,026.05 less than budget estimates.

Of the total $699,976,248 is for the postoffice department—$24,754,487 more than was appropriated a year ago and $3,116,936 less than budget recommendations and—$119,882,205 for the treasury.

The treasury department allotment does not take into consideration $1,339,051,075 for permanent and indefinite appropriations which do not require annual congressional action. It does, however, include $10,629,770 for enforcement of prohibition—$1,629,770 more than was granted last year.

FORD WON'T APPEAR AGAIN

Considers it Unnecessary To Go Before Committee

Washington, Jan. 29.—Henry Ford considers it unnecessary for himself or any representative to appear before the committee to further discuss his offer for Muscle Shoals. "Further hearings," Mr. Ford said, "would only serve to delay action and unnecessarily consume the time of a busy and important committee of Congress already in possession of all the facts."

REQUISITION HEARING IS CARRIED OVER

Hearing on the requisition of the Governor of Ohio for return to Eaton, that state, of Chas. Y. McDonald of Langdon to face a charge of non-support of children, was to be decided today by Governor Nestor. The hearing, which was held late yesterday afternoon, was continued until this morning. McDonald, having expressed a willingness to pay $7 a week ordered by the court for support of his children and assuring he has not been derelict in his duty, was trying to satisfy Prosecutor Ralph Sever of Ohio of his intentions so that the charge would be dismissed.

RESIGNATION OF DAUGHERTY IS DEMANDED

Washington, Jan. 29.—A resolution expressing the sense of the senate that the President request the immediate resignation of Attorney General Daugherty was drawn today by Senator Wheeler of Montana, who said he would present it at the first opportunity.

SEEK BODIES OF TWO SLAIN BY LINCOLN

Man Aids the Police in An Endeavor to Locate Bodies of the Two

Aurora, Ill., Jan. 29.—A search is being made today for the headless bodies of Mrs. Lina Lincoln and Byron Shoup, wife and brother-in-law of Warren J. Lincoln, lawyer and horticulturist, confessed slayer of the two, who told authorities last night he might have buried the bodies instead of burning them in his greenhouse furnace as he has hitherto stated. The victims' heads, immured in a block of concrete, were found Saturday by local police.

Investigations are also being made of the death of Lincoln's first wife 10 years ago, and that of a man whose body was found near Geneva, Ill., shortly after the time Lincoln says he killed his wife and her brother. The police have a theory that the man might have been a stranger Lincoln said he employed to dispose of the bodies.

An overdose of headache powders was said to be the cause of his first wife's death. Lincoln spent several hours yesterday pushing a wheelbarrow from his home to the greenhouse in belief that by reenacting the process by which he said he removed the bodies he would be able to recall his disposition of them. He abandoned the attempt after telling Chief of Police Michaels that too many persons were watching him and that after a night's sleep his memory might be refreshed.

Mr. Clara Lousbaugh of Tulsa, Okla., who arrived to take charge of the funeral over the remains of her sister and brother told the authorities that Lincoln's first wife's death had been under strange circumstances when he was postmaster at Mt. Pulaski, Ill. His second wife was a clerk in the postoffice at the time and Lincoln married her two years later.

EXPLOSION IN MINE PROBED

Second Public Day of Mourning in Illinois Town

Johnson City, Ill., Jan. 29.—(By the A. P.)—The coroner's inquest into the death of the 33 miners who lost their lives in the east side colliery of the Crerar-Clinch Coal company's mine as the result of an explosion occupied the attention of the local miners here today.

Officials representing the miners' organization stated last night that the principal question to be probed at the inquest would be whether the safety laws of the state had been observed and to determine if possible the cause of the explosion. The last of the funeral ceremonies of those who died in the mine will be held today when four more bodies will be laid to rest in accordance with a proclamation of Mayor Grant. Schools will be closed here today and business suspended in homage to the dead and another day of public mourning will be observed.

WOULD CHARGE VETS BUREAU

Full Authority For Change in Plan Proposed

Washington, Jan. 29.—Full authority for the director of the veterans bureau to put in force an administrative reorganization both in the home office and in the field is proposed in a preliminary report filed with the senate today by the special committee which has spent eight months investigating the affairs of the bureau.

Under the plan recommended the director would be able to establish rating boards in every district and sub-district to examine a state claimant in person to greatly simplify procedure on appeal and to make radical changes in hospital administration.

SINCLAIR TO STAY ABROAD AT THIS TIME

Figure in Oil Inquiry Declares He Had Been Discharged By Committee

REITERATES DENIAL

Head of Great Oil Interests Declared He Did Not Bribe Government Men

Paris, Jan. 29.—(By the A. P.) Harry F. Sinclair today cabled Senator Lenroot commending President Coolidge's action to institute legal proceedings over the Teapot Dome oil leases but reiterating his determination not to return to testify further until his European business trip had been completed.

Mr. Sinclair, in his message, says he "welcomed the judicial determination of these questions in a lawfully constituted court of our country and at the earliest date possible." He adds that having appeared before the investigating committee five different times and been discharged he feels justified in remaining in Europe until his business relations are completed.

"On five different occasions," the message says, "I have appeared before your committee. I have given you every fact or circumstance of a fact you have inquired about from me and was thereupon discharged by you from further testimony. It was not until you told me that I was discharged from further testimony that I came to Europe."

"I came here on a business matter. As soon as I can expedite my business I shall return."

"I have stated before your committee that neither I nor the companies with which I am connected have ever given Secretary Fall or any representatives of the government any money or any consideration whatsoever in connection with the Teapot Dome lease, and I again repeat that I have not done so."

There seemed to be just a bit of remorse in his demeanor when he talked about Alanson Herbert, who nearly was called "Tift, 2nd"—and then wasn't.

"Tift is in the Box Shook business, which means he manufactures and sells wooden boxes—without the air in them. Just knocked down boxes, ready to be put together by the buyer. It's easier and less expensive to ship them that way, Mr. Tift explained, and then added, "They can get the air to fill the boxes any place."

INCOME TAX RATES ARE UP IN COMMITTEE

House Ways and Means Committee Works Over the Rate Schedule

Washington, Jan. 29.—Revisions of some administrative features of the revenue bill and some new special tax proposals were considered today by the house ways and means committee preparatory to taking up the income tax rate schedules, the heart of the tax revision program.

Acceptance yesterday of the recommendation of Secretary Mellon to allow special reduction in the taxes on earned incomes disposed of the last major section of the bill other than the income rate.

Chairman Green's suggestion for a gift tax was among the subjects before the committee today. Such a tax also has been advanced by some members of the house as a means of blocking evasion of the inheritance tax through gifts.

With approach of the income tax rate discussion house Republican leaders and majority members of the committee moved to unite their forces. The Republicans are divided on whether to take up these rates in the full committee or write their own in private conferences. They also are at odds on the surtax rates, some of the leaders from the mid-western states favoring higher surtaxes than propped by Secretary Mellon but lower than advocated by the Democrats.

FORKS IS DISTRIBUTING POINT
Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 29.—Grand Forks has been named as chief distributing point by the Hart-Parr Tractor company for North Dakota, Montana, and the western Canadian provinces according to H. H. Boettger who has arrived here to take charge of the depot for the company.

SIXTY PER CENT OF CHILDREN IN STATE HELD "NOT UP TO NORMAL"

Approximately 60 percent of the children in North Dakota, under school age are classified as "not up to normal" by Dr. L. E. Bottelle, director of the Sheppard-Towner act administration of the state health department, in a report to the state board. Her conclusions were reached after examination of many children and holding clinics in various parts of the state.

"To sum up, with approximately 60 percent of the children not up to normal, and over 60 percent of the non-normal children suffering from malnutrition it seems essential to see that the defects which are correctable are brought to the attention of the parents and that instruction as to proper diet and general hygiene be given," said Dr. Bottelle. The Sheppard-Towner act, providing for cooperation between the national and state governments for infant welfare and maternity instruction and aid, will be vigorously carried out in the state, under plans of Dr. A. A. Whittemore, state health officer.

Dr. Bottelle in her report said organization of local committees had been completed in 12 centers, many conferences held, much instruction given and many children examined. Of 1,621 children registered, only 362, or about 22 percent, were found absolutely normal; 377, or nearly 23 percent, were suffering from malnutrition, and of these 124 had diseased tonsils, and 42 dental caries.

The work will be carried out on broad lines, being chiefly educational in nature, Dr. Whittemore said.

Tift—That's All!

"MISTER TIFT"
BY STEVE HANNAGAN.
NEA Service Staff Writer.

New York, Jan. 29.—Mister Tift is his name. And that's all there is, there isn't any more.

When he was born his dad and mother didn't hang any monicker handle on his little frame.

They thought they'd let him decide for himself when he grew up. They were pleasantly satisfied when he continued to be known only as Mister Tift or just plain Tift, as he is called by his intimates.

For 55 years he's gotten along very nicely without a given, Christian or surname.

"No, nothing amusing or exciting has ever happened as a result of it," he said in his unique office in the tower of the Produce Exchange Building, one of the ancient landmarks of lower Broadway.

"I sign checks, contracts, hotel registers—and everything else 'Mr. Tift.' Sometimes they ask for my initials, or given name. But when I explain, they never ask again. It has been a great help in having people remember me."

Mr. Tift is the only man in the country who has legitimately gone through life without the added appendage of a sur-name, he believes. But when his two sons were born, eh, made up for the name he never had. He called them Alanson Herbert and Robert Lincoln.

There seemed to be just a bit of remorse in his demeanor when he talked about Alanson Herbert, who nearly was called "Tift, 2nd"—and then wasn't.

"Tift is in the Box Shook business, which means he manufactures and sells wooden boxes—without the air in them. Just knocked down boxes, ready to be put together by the buyer. It's easier and less expensive to ship them that way, Mr. Tift explained, and then added, "They can get the air to fill the boxes any place."

EARTHQUAKES SHAKE CHILE

Violent in Some Quarters. Scientists Say

Buenos Aires, Jan. 29.—Fourth earth—shocks—beginning—at 9:45 o'clock last night were registered by the seismograph at LaPlata observatory. The last quake was violent. The center of the disturbance, according to the scientists, was in Chile between Santiago and Valparaiso.

Advices from Mendoza in western Argentina says that the shock was felt in Chile from Telta to LaSera.

SHOCKS RECORDED

Washington, Jan. 29.—An earthquake of moderate intensity was recorded between 9:06 and 10 p. m. last night on the seismograph at Georgetown University. Father Condor, the seismologist, announced that the quake apparently was about 4,600 miles south of Washington.

VARSITY EXAMS SOON

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 29.—Classes at the state university will close Tuesday evening for the semester examinations which will continue through Feb. 6. Classwork will be resumed Feb. 7 when the new semester will open.

Dr. Bottelle in her report said organization of local committees had been completed in 12 centers, many conferences held, much instruction given and many children examined. Of 1,621 children registered, only 362, or about 22 percent, were found absolutely normal; 377, or nearly 23 percent, were suffering from malnutrition, and of these 124 had diseased tonsils, and 42 dental caries.

NAVY OFFICIAL IS CRITICIZED IN U. S. SENATE

Resignation Is Demanded Resolution; Coolidge Is Standing By Him

OIL FIGHT WARMS UP

Passage of Resolution Giving President Authority to Get Council Seen

Washington, Jan. 29.—Secretary Denby announced after today's cabinet meeting at which the senate oil investigation was considered that he had "no intention whatever of resigning at the present time."

PRESIDENT SILENT

Washington, Jan. 29.—President Coolidge, asked a direct question today by callers to his office relative to the Robinson resolution requesting the resignation of Secretary Denby, replied that it was a matter he did not care to discuss.

FALL NEAR BREAKDOWN

Washington, Jan. 29.—Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the Interior, is on the verge of a nervous breakdown, the senate oil committee was told by his counsel, Levi Cooke.

Senator Fall has been under a great strain for the last few weeks," said Mr. Cooke. "He traveled extensively and has been put to a great physical strain."

Urging that the committee as a whole or a sub-committee examine Mr. Fall in his sick room at the home of J. W. Zevrely, Mr. Cooke told the committee that it was the opinion of attending physicians that a delay in the examination tended only to aggravate his condition.

He added that doctors felt that any prolonged strain on him at this time might have a most detrimental effect and read a statement prepared last night by John Wharton and three consulting physicians to that effect. The recommendation was made that the committee visit the Zevrely home and take Mr. Fall's statement without any undue delay.

Washington, Jan. 29.—(By the A. P.)—Both the White House and Congress proceeded today with plans to throw the whole of the Fall-Dohney-Sinclair oil lease muddle into the courts.

In another dramatic debate the senate not only pressed toward action on an annulment resolution but heard that Secretary Denby retired from the cabinet because of his part in the leasing program.

As the cabinet assembled for its regular Tuesday session there were renewed indications that President Coolidge expected the Navy Secretary to retain his post. In this attitude the administration has the support of the titular Republican leaders of the senate.

The attack on Mr. Denby as well as the proposal to employ special counsel to prosecute the oil annulment suits were talked over at a White House conference last night attended by Senator Lodge and several others. The President was not yet ready today, however, to announce who would be chosen to conduct the prosecution.

Just before the senate met the oil investigating committee heard a statement by an attorney for Former Secretary Fall and decided to question tomorrow the physicians who have attended Mr. Fall since he came to Washington. The statement by his counsel today declared he was threatened with a nervous breakdown and requested that his testimony be taken in his sick room. The immediate subject of the senate debate when the session began today was the resolution of Senator Walsh, Democrat, calling on the President to employ special counsel and institute proceedings for cancellation of both the Dohney and Sinclair leases. Its passage before adjournment tonight was generally predicted on both sides of the Chamber.

A different situation, however, confronted the resolution presented by Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, asking for the removal of Secretary Denby and any other officials of the Navy department whose connection with the leases indicates "misfeasance or malfeasance."

The Republican organization opposed the proposal although they conceded that it might attract enough Democrats and insurgent Republican votes for adoption.

REVOLT AFTER LENINE'S DEATH

IGNITE CASE HEARING SET DEFINITELY

First Hearing Will Be in Aberdeen, S. D. and Second Hearing in Bismarck

For the first time the petition for an increase in the rate of coal taxes in North Dakota will be heard on February 20 in Aberdeen, South Dakota, and on February 25 in Bismarck, as originally scheduled, under arrangement satisfactory to the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is stated by Commissioner C. W. Donnell today.

It had been indicated by members of the North Dakota commission at a joint hearing with a representative of the Interstate Commerce Commission would be refused if the case were put in at Aberdeen, which hearing the North Dakota commission would be without jurisdiction. Telegram from the Interstate Commerce Commission announced that a hearing conducted by that body in Aberdeen will be restricted to the proposed increases in interstate rates. The hearing in Bismarck will be to do chiefly with intrastate rates.

WOLF HUNTER IN EXHIBITION

Rugby, N. D., Jan. 29.—Adam Leisner decided to give some of his friends up here an exhibition of expert wolf killing, so having captured a live coyote he brought it up. Accompanied by several auto loads of spectators, the wolf was taken out north of the John Vetch farm, where Adam dumped Mr. Coyote out of the back on a plowed field, made a pass at him with the empty sack and told him to beat it. The three magnificent hounds had been left back in the car, about two hundred yards distant, but as the coyote started they left the car like a streak of increased lightning, and in no time at all had dumped the coyote and all three had him by the throat, each one tugging in a different direction and it was only a matter of a minute or two until the coyote had gone where all good coyotes go—when those dogs get hold of them. Adam picked up seven nice foxes the other day, for which he received $18 apiece. Besides these, he has caught a large number of coyotes again this winter, and is on their trail all the time.

Divorce may be on the increase in America, but these five couples all members of one church congregation, represent 271 years of wedded bliss. Lifelong members of the First Baptist church at Owosso, Mich., they recently celebrated the fact that each couple has been wedded over 50 years. A sixth eligible couple couldn't attend. Left to right, the couples and the number of years wed are: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Miller, 59; Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Crawford, 53; Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Goodale, 63; Mr. and Mrs. James Archer, 50; Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Mahoney, 55.

STATE SEEDS IN DEMAND

Bigger Call Than Ever Before For Them

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 29.—The call for flax seed from the states of Minnesota and South Dakota alone would apparently make use of all of the NDR 114 flax that North Dakota farmers have listed, says H. L. Bolley, state seed commissioner for North Dakota, and biologist at the North Dakota Experiment Station.

Mr. Bolley reports that the call for state seed lists showing names of growers of good seed of all kinds has never been so large as at the present time. He also reports that the list of farmers sending in samples of seed which they are holding for sale has probably never been as small.

"One of the chief functions of the Pure Seed Laboratory is to aid the purchasers and users of good seed to get in touch with each other," says Mr. Bolley, "but the laboratory cannot function for the benefit of the growers who have seed for sale unless they will submit samples of the seed that they wish listed."

Through the laboratory, Mr. Bolley advises, farmers can locate, handle and sell to each other high class seeds. It is unfortunate, he adds, that those who have seed for sale neglect to send in samples until it is too late for the laboratory to help them get in touch with those who wish to buy.

"If farmers want this aid of the seed laboratory, they should send in their samples," Mr. Bolley advises. "Tell how much you have for sale, the origin of the seed and all other essential facts. No seeds will be listed without germination tests, purity tests, etc."

"In the case of flax, with resistance tests are also made. Growers who send samples also receive from the seed laboratory a report on the quality of seed. This in itself ought to be of great advantage to them. Address all samples to: Pure Seed Laboratory, Agricultural College, N. D."

SAVES LIFE, STOPPING BLOOD WITH HIS HAND

Marmarth, N. D., Jan. 29.—Following a family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Skeels at Rhame, Mrs. Frank Skeels of our city, started work of clearing off the table and went part way down the cellar stairs, tripping her arm on a glass fruit jar which cut through the fleshy portion, severing a large vein.

The wound bled profusely, causing considerable trepidation until Frank Skeels located the right spot and so placed his thumb as to stop the bleeding. As it was more than two hours before Dr. Daly arrived at the scene from Marmarth, it proved a long and trying ordeal to Mr. Skeels, who for two hours held the life of his wife in his fingers. His brother made a hurried trip to Marmarth over the new road and secured Dr. Daly, who was able to tie up the severed ends of the vein and dress the wound.

FEDERAL COURT TERM

OFFENSE AT MINOT

Minot, N. D., Jan. 29.—A jury term of United States district court opened here yesterday with Judge Andrew Miller of Fargo presiding.

Narcotic drug and liquor charges are said to predominate the criminal calendar.

United States Marshal James Shea of Fargo brought Grover Hoese, charged with violation of the Mann White Slave act, to Minot to await trial at the federal court term. Hoese was arrested in Minot about a year ago.

COULTER BILL IS REPORTED

Favorably Placed Before Senate by Agricultural Committee

Washington, Jan. 29.—(By the A. P.) The Norbeck-Burness bill providing financial relief for farmers in areas stricken by crop failure, approved in principle yesterday, was ordered favorably reported today by the senate agricultural committee.

The committee approved an amendment by Senator Harrison, Democrat, which would increase the appropriation from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 and make the additional available for farmers generally instead of only wheat growers.

BOTH WIN AND BOTH ALSO LOSE

Minot, N. D., Jan. 29.—A plaintiff and a defendant in a civil action in district court each won the case and yet each of them lost, the plaintiff probably the most heavily because court officials say that he will have to pay the cost of the case.

Percy A. Cook, Minot contractor, brought a suit against George S. Kirkpatrick seeking a judgment of $180 which he claimed to be due on a contract. Kirkpatrick interposed a counterclaim of $177 for alleged defective work.

It took the jury several hours during late yesterday and early last night to decide the case and these are the verdicts returned in court this forenoon:

Verdict in favor of the plaintiff for dismissal of the plaintiff for dismissal of the defendant's counterclaim.

We, the jury, in the above entitled action, find in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for dismissal of the defendant's counterclaim.

Consequently both litigants won the case despite the fact that they both lost.

NOOSE MAN PLUNGES TO DEATH, BREAKING NECK

Cooperstown, N. D., Jan. 29.—Apparently plunging or diving to take up the slack in a strong short cord encircling his neck at one end and tied to his bed at the other end, Charles Gupta, 45, ended his life by breaking his neck, his body being found in his room at a local hotel. A coroner's jury found a verdict of suicide.

Gupta had been employed in this community for some time at farm work and other labor.

The body was sent to Kimball, Minn., where the father resides.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF WILKINS MICAWBER

There is a formula for success in Micawber's observation in Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield," that if a man has an income of twenty pounds a year and spends twenty-one he will be miserable, but if he spends only nineteen pounds he will be happy.

Spending more than you earn leads inevitably to debt—the ball and chain which hinders progress and stifles initiative. Living within one's income is essential to future happiness and prosperity.

A jury in district court today was hearing the case of Elias Ellefled, farmer living southeast of Driscoll, charged with having in his possession apparatus for the manufacture of liquor. TOWNLEY ON TRIAL TODAY

Preliminary Hearing in Fargo Case Under Way

Fargo, Jan. 29.—The preliminary hearing of A. C. Townley and J. J. Hastings, charged with embezzlement of $72,000 of Consumers United Stores Company funds began before Police Magistrate Leigh J. Monson this morning. The case was transferred to Judge Monson's court last yesterday when State Attorney H. F. Horner asked for a change of venue from the court of H. P. Miller. Arthur LeSueur of St. Paul, at one time associated with Townley, Hastings and J. W. Brimmon, the complaining witness, in league affairs is conducting the case for the state. He appeared as a special prosecutor.

The entire morning session of court was devoted to the identification of records of the Scandinavian-American bank and stores company in regard to the accounts the defendants are alleged to have embezzled. The witnesses examined were N. P. Greivig, assistant cashier of the Scandinavian-American bank in 1918, and C. W. Reichert of Oubington, receiver for the stores.

Townley and Hastings are charged by Brimmon with using a Consumers United Stores company deposit of about $72,000 in the Scandinavian-American Bank for their own purposes.

BIG LIQUOR RAIDS MADE

One Captured After Chase Through Streets

Fargo, Jan. 29.—One of the largest liquor seizures since prohibition went into effect in Minnesota, was made by members of the Clay county sheriff's office and Moorhead police department early yesterday morning. The seizure followed a thrilling auto race through the streets of Moorhead, after which James Kaer, a farmer living northwest of that city, was forced into the ditch by the pursuing policemen and captured after delivering a gallon of moonshine liquor to a purchaser in Moorhead.

Two first class stills, 25 gallons of moonshine liquor and several barrels of mash were seized and destroyed in the raid. The stills and samples of the liquor for evidence and analyses were brought to Moorhead.

The raids were made on the farms of James Kaer and Alex Vassor in Spring Prairie township by the officers.

C. W. Gillette, 316 First street south, Moorhead, is the name of the man, as given by the police, to whom the delivery of the liquor was said to have been made.

Stills were found on the two farms incriminously concealed in caves or dugouts under sheds and adjoining barns on the farms, entrance to the dugouts being through the floor of the two barns.

Anti-Saloon League Superintendent End Defense

New York, Jan. 29.—William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, completed his defense against the charge of third degree forgery and it is expected the case will go to the jury this afternoon.

The trial events produced an expert accounting of books, a publicity agent who professed to have been one of the men who worked for the mysterious "Henry Mann," the person by Anderson said to have directed the $24,700 publicity campaign for the Anti-Saloon League and six character witnesses who said they firmly believed in Anderson's integrity and honesty.

With the admittance of the last character testimony in Anderson's behalf, both the prosecution and defense announced their cases had been completed. Supreme Court Justice Tomkins adjourned court till tomorrow morning, when attorneys for both sides will sum up and the court will instruct the jury.

"Over the Hill To The Poorhouse" is not a picture.

Several people in the city seem to be under the impression that the show staged for the benefit of St. Mary's school is a motion picture. There was a picture made from the play, an appealing picture which enjoyed a long run.

The play, "Over the Hill To The Poorhouse" is the same as the picture with the exception that there was very little comedy in the picture and in the play the serious scenes were nicely blended with bright and amusing comedy. Both the picture and the play are founded on Will Carleton's famous poem, which has been read and enjoyed by millions.

The play will be staged next Monday, February 4, at the City Auditorium. There will be a matinee at 4 p. m. and the night performance at 8:15 p. m. The proceeds will go to the benefit of St. Mary's school. Reserved seats will be on sale Friday.

Airplane With Moving Wings to Rise From Housetop

Intended for rising out of narrowly limited spaces or from the roofs of ordinary buildings, an airplane which has wings that resemble paddle wheels is being built by an inventor. These, with forward motion, will carry the machine up, down, ahead, or backward, according to the designer, who expects his craft to even stand still in midair without changing the direction of the wings' rotation. It gets its power from an airplane engine, which drives the propellers by means of chains.

How efficiency of workers is reduced by lost motions is being shown through detailed photographic studies. Observation of bricklayers of ordinary training, who are said to use the same methods that have prevailed for 7,000 years, and of that most ancient of craftsmen, the berry picker, are said to give no indication that the best way to do these tasks is to follow instinct. The layer of brick can be trained to do three times as much work with the same effort, according to the tests. Similarly, the berry picker can increase his harvest fifteenfold, it is said.

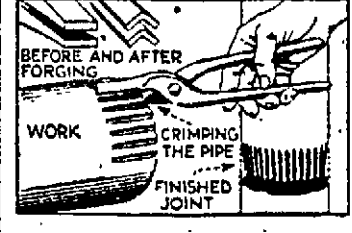

Turned Posts for Homemade Furniture

The appearance of homemade tables and other furniture can be improved considerably if round legs are used instead of square ones, which immediately give the job away, no matter how well done. It is not necessary, in most cases, to go to the trouble of having legs made especially for this purpose, or to ransack the market for them, as ordinary stair balusters, which are available in a variety of sizes and forms, can be procured from any dealer in lumber and millwork. These balusters make as neat table, pedestal, and chair legs as can be desired and cost very little.

Crimping Tool for Pipe

Anyone who has attempted to join two lengths of galvanized-iron pipe, when the end of one length is not crimped, will appreciate the home-made crimping tool shown in the illustration. A pair of ordinary long-handled flat-nosed pliers was heated and the jaws forged to a V-shape, as shown in the detail. In use the crimping tool is simply pressed over the metal around the end of the pipe, which reduces the diameter, so that it can be pushed into the end of the other length of pipe.

Gas Formed in Grain Cargo Raises Sunken Ship

Gas, generated by saturation of grain by water, recently raised a ship that had lain deck down on the bottom of the Mediterranean Sea since 1916, when it struck a floating mine. As the vessel reached the surface, keel upward, it turned over and the gas, rushing through openings in the deck, exploded. Grain was blown high into the air and scattered over the sea, while the boat filled with water and sank again.

"The number of milk cows on farms on January 1 of the current year shows a substantial gain of 30,000 head over the number of a year ago, following an almost continuous yearly increase since 1919. Cattle other than milk cows again show a moderate decline, the January 1, 1924, estimate being placed at 800,000 compared with 814,000 a year ago and 848,000 in 1922 and 1921. Unattractive markets during the past three years and liquidation demands on farmers have been contributing factors in this decrease.

Sheep on farms January 1 this year are estimated to number 251,000 against 240,000 a year ago, reversing the downward trend that set in four years ago. Present numbers are close to what might be termed the average sheep population for the past ten years (approximately 257,000).

Hog numbers show the strongest trend since 1919, the present population being placed at 651,000, a gain of 25,000 compared with a year ago, and 195,000 compared with 1919. Present numbers, however, do not

Airplane With Moving Wings to Rise From Housepost

Intended for rising out of narrowly limited spaces or from the roofs of ordinary buildings, an airplane which has wings that resemble paddle wheels is being built by an inventor. These, with forward motion, will carry the machine up, down, ahead, or backward, according to the designer, who expects his craft to even stand still in midair without changing the direction of the wings' rotation. It gets its power from an airplane engine, which drives the propellers by means of chains.

How efficiency of workers is reduced by lost motions is being shown through detailed photographic studies. Observation of bricklayers of ordinary training, who are said to use the same methods that have prevailed for 7,000 years, and of that most ancient of craftsmen, the berry picker, are said to give no indication that the best way to do these tasks is to follow instinct. The layer of brick can be trained to do three times as much work with the same effort, according to the tests. Similarly, the berry picker can increase his harvest fifteenfold, it is said.

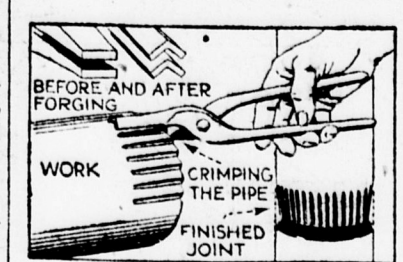

Turned Posts for Homemade Furniture

The appearance of homemade tables and other furniture can be improved considerably if round legs are used instead of square ones, which immediately give the job away, no matter how well done. It is not necessary, in most cases, to go to the trouble of having legs made especially for this purpose, or to ransack the market for them, as ordinary stair balusters, which are available in a variety of sizes and forms, can be procured from any dealer in lumber and millwork. These balusters make as neat table, pedestal, and chair legs as can be desired and cost very little.

Crimping Tool for Pipe

Anyone who has attempted to join two lengths of galvanized-iron pipe, when the end of one length is not crimped, will appreciate the home-made crimping tool shown in the illustration. A pair of ordinary long-handled flat-nosed pliers was heated and the jaws forced to a V-shape, as shown in the detail. In use the crimping is simply pressed over the metal around the end of the pipe, which reduces the diameter, so that it can be pushed into the end of the other length of pipe.

Gas Formed in Grain Cargo Raises Sunken Ship

Gas, generated by saturation of grain by water, recently raised a ship that had lain dead downward on the bottom of the Mediterranean Sea since 1916, when it struck a floating mine. As the vessel reached the surface, keel upward, it turned over and the gas, rushing through openings in the deck, exploded. Grain was blown high into the air and scattered over the sea, while the boat filled with water and sank again.

The average annual gasoline consumption for each passenger automobile in the United States is estimated at 360 gallons.

KLAN BEFORE MINERS' BODY

Withdrawal of Ban Will Be Debated

Indianapolis, Jan. 29.—Amendment to the constitution including several proposals that the ban against the Ku Klux Klan membership be withdrawn and others attacking appointment powers of the international presidency were to be considered when the United Mine Workers convention started on its seventh day. The reports of the scale committee, it was said this morning, would likely be made sometime Thursday or Friday if it is not spent in roll calls or extended debate.

REBELS CLAIM NEW VICTORY

Vera Cruz, Jan. 29.—(By Radio via the Dallas News to the A. The rebels suffered heavy losses, it is declared, and the rebels captured horses and munitions.

Conquering The Winds

Elma, Wash.—An air motor designed to move a boat or vehicle directly against the wind has been invented here by Charles R. Ford. It consists of a series of fans or windmills mounted on the same shaft and inclosed in a cylinder. Between the fans are stationary pieces of metal that Ford calls "air straighteners." These, the inventor declares, so distribute the currents passing through the housing that each fan generates the same amount of power.

per cent of the number on farm a year ago. The trend of the horse population has been downward since 1919 which year marked the peak of the increase in horse raising that set in with the beginning of the year. The present mule population remains the same as a year ago or 8,000 head. The number of milk cows on farms on January 1 of the current year shows a substantial gain of 30,000 head over the number of a year ago, following an almost continuous yearly increase since 1919. The present number of 633,000 is 6 per cent more than the number of farms a year ago and 24.2 per cent more than the number on January 1, 1919. Cattle other than milk cows again show a moderate decline, the January 1, 1924, estimate being placed at 806,000 compared with 814,000 a year ago and 848,000 in 1922 and 1921. Unattractive markets during the past three years and liquidation demands on farmers have been contributing factors in this decrease.

Sheep on farms January 1 this year are estimated to number 254,000 against 240,000 a year ago, reversing the downward trend that set in four years ago. Present numbers are close to what might be termed the average sheep population for the past ten years (approximately 257,000). Hog numbers show the strongest trend since 1919, the present population being placed at 651,000, a gain of 85,000 compared with a year ago, and 195,000 compared with 1919. Present numbers, however, do not represent the peak of production, but the second high point in the past 15 years. The first peak was reached in 1917 with 706,000 following a steady yearly increase from 332,000 in 1910. From 1917 to 1920 the trend was downward with the low point 428,000 reached in 1920. All farm animals combined total on January 1, 1924, 3,039,000 compared with 2,928,000 a year ago and 2,838,000 on January 1, 1922.

Values Per Head.

All classes of livestock except milk cows and sheep show lower values per head than a year ago. January 1 values for the present year compared with last year for the six classes are estimated to average as follows: Horses $45, compared with $56 last year; mules, $61, compared with $69 last year; milk cows, $47, compared with $44 last year; other cattle, $19.80, compared with $21.40 last year; sheep, $7.80, compared with $7.30 last year; hogs, $10, compared with $13.80 last year.

Total Values.

The aggregate value of all livestock on farms on January 1, 1924, for the state is placed at $88,257,000, compared with $94,129,000 the small gain in total numbers being more than offset by the decline in value per head for four of the six classes.

IGNITE CASE HEARING SET DEFINITELY

First Hearing Will Be in Aberdeen, S. D. and Second Hearing in Bismarck

Because of the railroad's position in the case, the Interstate Commerce Commission will be held in session in Aberdeen, S. D., on February 20, and on February 25 in Bismarck, as originally scheduled, under arrangement satisfactory to the Interstate Commerce Commission, it is stated by Commissioner C. W. Donnell today.

It had been indicated by members of the North Dakota commission that a joint hearing with a representative of the Interstate Commerce Commission would be refused if the case were put in at Aberdeen, which hearing the North Dakota commission would be without jurisdiction. A telegram from the Interstate Commerce Commission announced that the hearing in Bismarck will be to do chiefly with intrastate cases.

With this assurance, Mr. McDunnell, notices will be prepared today, finally announcing the dates of the hearing. The hearing in Bismarck will be conducted in the federal court room, and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

WOLF HUNTER IN EXHIBITION

Rugby, N. D., Jan. 29.—Adam Leisner decided to give some of his friends up here an exhibition of expert wolf killing, so having captured a live coyote he brought it up. Accompanied by several auto loads of spectators, the wolf was taken out north of the John Voth farm, where Adam dumped Mr. Coyote out of the back on a plowed field, made a pass at him with the empty sack and told him to beat it. The three magnificent hounds had been left back in the car, about two hundred yards distant, but as the coyote started they left the car like a streak of increased lightning, and in no time at all had dumped the coyote and all three had him by the throat, each one tugging in a different direction and it was only a matter of a minute, until the coyote had gone where all good coyotes go—when those dogs get hold of them. Adam picked up seven nice foxes the other day, for which he received $18 piece. Besides these, he has caught a large number of coyotes again this winter, and is on their trail all the time.

STATE SEEDS IN DEMAND

Bigger Call Than Ever Before For Them

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 29.—The call for flax seed from the states of Minnesota and South Dakota alone would apparently make use of all of the NDR 114 flax that North Dakota farmers have listed, says H. L. Bolley, state seed commissioner for North Dakota, and biologist at the North Dakota Experiment Station.

Mr. Bolley reports that the call for state seed lists showing names of growers of good seed of all kinds has never been so large as at the present time. He also reports that the list of farmers sending in samples of seed which they are holding for sale has probably never been as small.

"One of the chief functions of the Pure Seed Laboratory is to aid the purchasers and users of good seed to get in touch with each other," says Mr. Bolley, "that the laboratory can not function for the benefit of the growers who have seed for sale unless they will submit samples of the seed that they wish listed."

Through the laboratory, Mr. Bolley advises, farmers can locate, handle and sell to each other high class seeds. It is unfortunate, he adds, that those who have seed for sale neglect to send in samples until it is too late for the laboratory to help them get in touch with those who wish to buy.

"If farmers want this aid of the seed laboratory, they should send in their samples," Mr. Bolley advises. "Tell how much you have for sale, the origin of the seed and all other essential facts. No seed will be listed without preliminary tests, purity tests, etc."

"In the case of the wheat growers, tests are also made. Growers who send samples also receive from the seed laboratory a report on the quality of seed. This in itself would be of great advantage to them. Address all samples to: Pure Seed Laboratory, Agricultural College, N. D."

SHE DANCES

SAVES LIFE, STOPPING BLOOD WITH HIS HAND

Marmarth, N. D., Jan. 29.—Following a family drama at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Skeels at Marmarth, Mrs. Frank Skeels of our city, started work of clearing off the table when she stepped through the cellarway and fell part way down the cellar stairs, striking her arm on a glass fruit jar which cut through the fleshy portion, severing a large vein.

The wound bled profusely, causing considerable trepidation until Frank Skeels located the right spot and so placed his thumb as to stop the bleeding. As it was more than two hours before Dr. Daly arrived on the scene from Marmarth, it proved a long and trying ordeal to Mr. Skeels, who for two hours held the life of his wife in his fingers. His brother made a hurried trip to Marmarth over the new road and secured Dr. Daly, who was able to tie up the severed ends of the vein and dress the wound.

FEDERAL COURT TERM OPENS AT MINOT

Minot, N. D., Jan. 29.—A jury term of United States district court opened here yesterday with Judge Andrew Miller of Fargo presiding.

Narcotic drug and liquor charges are said to predominate the criminal calendar.

COULTER BILL IS REPORTED

Favorably Placed Before Senate by Agricultural Committee

Washington, Jan. 29.—(By the A. P.) The Norbeck-burrows bill providing financial relief for farmers in areas stricken by crop failure, approved in principle yesterday, was ordered favorably reported today by the senate agricultural committee.

The committee approved an amendment by Senator Harrison, Democrat, which would increase the appropriation from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 and make the additional available for farmers generally instead of only wheat growers.

BOTH WIN AND BOTH ALSO LOSE

Minot, N. D., Jan. 29.—A plaintiff and a defendant in a civil action in district court each won the case and yet each of them lost, the plaintiff probably the most heavily because court officials say that he will have to pay the cost of the case.

Percy A. Cook, Minot contractor, brought a suit against George S. Kirkpatrick seeking a judgment of $180 which he claimed to be due on a contract. Kirkpatrick interposed a counterclaim of $477 for alleged defective work.

It took the jury several hours during late yesterday and early last night to decide the case and they gave the verdict returned in court this forenoon.

We, the jury, find in favor of the defendant and against the plaintiff for dismissal of the action.

We, the jury, in the above entitled action, find in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for the dismissal of the defendant's counterclaim.

Consequently both litigants won the case despite the fact that they both lost.

NOOSED MAN PLUNGES TO DEATH, BREAKING NECK

Conoverston, N. D., Jan. 29.—Apparently plunging or diving to take up the slack in a strong short cord snatching his neck at one end and tied to his head at the other end, Charles Gupitt, 49, ended his life by breaking his neck, his body being found in his room at a local hotel. A coroner's jury found a verdict of suicide.

Gupitt had been employed in this community for some time at farm work and other labor.

The body was sent to Kimball, Minn., where the father resides.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF WILKINS MICAWBER

There is a formula for success in Micawber's observation in Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield," that if a man has an income of twenty pounds a year and spends twenty-one he will be miserable, but if he spends only nineteen pounds he will be happy.

Spending more than you earn leads inevitably to debt—the ball and chain which hinders progress and stifles initiative. Living within one's income is essential to future happiness and prosperity.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

GOOD NEWS FOR NORTH DAKOTA

The North Dakotan who has seen government financiers rushing to South Dakota and has noticed that North Dakota has been omitted in the discussion of the serious condition facing states to the south has been gratified that this state has escaped the unfavorable advertising they have received. The difference, however, is that North Dakota has long since passed the peak of her troubles while they are just beginning to the south. And while they were confined to the smaller financial institutions in North Dakota they began with the larger in South Dakota, chiefly through the inflation of land values creating a fictitious borrowing power and lack of warning in time to head off impending danger.

A member of the Federal Reserve staff in Minneapolis has said that North Dakota passed the peak of her depression in December, 1922, and has slowly been on the menu since that time. Whatever setbacks seem apparent now are more than offset by gains which may not be so apparent.

North Dakotans who are studying the situation are impressed not so much by the immediate factors as those which are potent in building a new and more firm structure of agricultural and industrial life in the state. For example, in spite of the widespread talk that North Dakota farmers are leaving the farms in droves, in spite of pessimistic reports and unfortunate situations met by many individuals, the United States Department of Agriculture study of livestock conditions in North Dakota as of January 1, 1924, is distinctly encouraging.

Gains made during the past year include 85,000 more hogs on the farms, 30,000 more milk cows, 14,000 more sheep, about the same number of beef cattle. This increase could not come were farmers leaving the farms in large numbers. It could not come if the great bulk of the North Dakota farmers were broke or had lost complete faith in the state. It could not come if the farmers did not see that the future lies in diversified farming. Livestock prices, except on sheep, have been discouraging. Milk prices continue above the usual level. Shipments of corn, shipments of "finished" stock instead of grass stock to market means a great gain for the livestock industry on the farms of North Dakota.

A wheat failure in North Dakota never will be as serious again as it has been in the past. A great wheat crop will not be the bonanza it has in times past because it will not be the only crop of the farmers. But the gains from balanced farming are certain; a sure livelihood, a certain and moderate prosperity, a busy and contented people—all these are North Dakota's in the future.

And when the farmers to the south of the state learn of the results of the North Dakota Corn Show, when they find out they can raise corn on $30 an acre land as good as they can raise on $150 and $200 an acre land in their own states, they are going to see the advantage in settling on North Dakota's fertile prairies.

A LITTLE SERIOUS THINKING NEEDED

A group of United States Senators telegraphed an appeal to Northwestern states asking farmers to meet in precinct meetings and decide what farm relief they want.

We hazard a guess that many will reply: "Less bunk and a little more serious thinking."

The farmers of North Dakota, who are intelligent and studious, no doubt could give some good advice to Congress. But it is almost an insult to them for their elected representatives, who have every facility at their command for the study of farm problems and the assistance of experts, to avoid their plain duty by seeking to have the men back home make decisions for them. It smacks of a fear on the part of politicians to face the facts in Washington and an endeavor to find an excuse for their actions in advance.

There are many farm relief measures in Washington—the Coulter plan bill, the Norris-Sinclair marketing bill, the McNary-Haugen marketing bill, and plans to utilize various government financial agencies. Congress has been spending much time on them and the senators ought to know their own minds. Many of the statements which have been made indicate that opposition to various measures arises from political motives.

After all there is too much economic soothing syrup proposed. Many farmers are beginning to gag. They are getting weary of being continually "saved."

ARBUCKLE "COMES BACK"

So "Fatty" Arbuckle is back in the movies—as a director for Buster Keaton. The news dispatch from Los Angeles says Arbuckle's name on the screen will be changed to Will B. Good.

Human nature is perplexing. Many, who would object to Arbuckle returning as an actor, will consider it all right for him to have a job in another branch of picture-making, though one is as mechanical as another when the film gets to the public. He can be a cook but not a waiter, seems to be the system.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

John Moody, one of the three best professional business forecasters, predicts that times will be much better at the end of 1924 than at the close of 1923. Look for a decided pick-up, along about June, Moody says.

When another big boom is coming, you will know it about 90 days ahead, in a runaway stock market with prices soaring. Usually preceded by temporary rises, followed by drops, to lure suckers and then wipe out their margins.

"CLEAN-UPS"

In 13 leading cities the police recently have been conducting spectacular "clean-ups," chiefly against gamblers and bootleggers. Such waves of activity sweep over the country periodically, especially after elections.

Clean-up activity is commendable. All laws should be enforced. But one wonders why the "clean-ups" aren't continual. Crime is.

STATE OWNERSHIP AND PRIVATE INDUSTRY

The permanent closing of three large mills in North Dakota, the largest of the three being at Jamestown, the alleged chief cause of such action being inability of the privately owned mills to compete successfully against the state-owned mill, seems bound to bring into the foreground once more, the controversy between the friends and the critics of state socialism which raged in North Dakota so violently from 1913 to 1919. The gains and the losses from the experiment will be checked up, conclusions drawn, and it will be difficult to keep the question out of the coming political campaigns.

Friends of state ownership will argue that the "program" has not yet been given a fair trial, while critics will point out that the avowed purpose of the state mill, to raise the price of wheat to the grower and lower the price of flour to the consumer, has failed utterly in fact, and that instead, the mill is proving a costly experiment to the state, as well as driving out of business one of the largest private industries in the state and one that pays heavy taxes to support the state's government, schools, roads, etc.

At the time of the recall convention, the framers of the independent Voters' Association platform decided it the wiser and fairer policy to include in the platform a compromise, namely to complete the state flour mill at Grand Forks and give it a fair trial. This has been done, and while the trial has been brief, a demand will be made for an accounting, an audit of gains and losses, benefits and detriments.

The people of North Dakota will ask themselves whether they wish further trial of the socialist theory that state ownership of the larger industries will give a better distribution and better production of wealth than now prevails, or whether it would not be wiser for the people to stand once more for private ownership under private initiative, and for commercial competition of free individuals with fair supervision or regulation by the central government.

The present desire of a large and outspoken number undoubtedly is for the least possible interference with industrial competition between private individuals or incorporated groups of private individuals, and it seems impossible to convert their minds into any confidence that state socialism can ever succeed or that it will accomplish its purported aim to convert into general benefit what is now the gain of the comparatively few.

The people of the state and the tax payers, both friends and critics of the socialist experiment will think deeply on this problem during the next few months—Jamestown Alert.

WAITING TO HEAR FROM MR. FALL

Albert B. Fall, formerly Secretary of the Interior who has been summoned by subpoena process to appear as a witness before the Senate committee which is investigating the lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to a private company, says he will go to Washington and make a full statement of his connection with the affair and of the facts as he knows them.

This is well, but how much better it would have been for Mr. Fall's own sake if he had anticipated the formal legal summons by going voluntarily to Washington before or after Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas, had made his public charges of alleged official corruption in connection with the letting of the lease, and demanding the opportunity to tell his story.

Whatever may be the truth about the lease, it was placed long ago by critics and politicians in verbal stings that gave it all the bad aspects of a national scandal. The case commentators have repeatedly made Mr. Fall's foreground figure and outstanding feature of their ugly portraits. Under the circumstances Mr. Fall's best and most faithful friends can scarcely feel otherwise than that he should make a statement and go to Washington and insisting to the committee that he be heard in a frank and full presentation of his side of the case. Instead of this he has elected to assume an attitude that unmistakably places him in a deplorable light in the popular mind.

The resignation of Archie Roosevelt from the vice presidency of the lessee oil company, and his public statement that he severed his relations with the company because he had "learned of things which while not proven facts as yet, corroborated certain suspicions I entertain," make it even more imperative than before that the truth about the lease should be found and made public. Roosevelt's action was bound to have a harmful effect in strengthening any rumors of wrongdoing outsiders may have had.

The shadow that rests on Mr. Fall has been deepened. He is the one man above all others to whom the public looks now for a clearing away of doubts and for an answer to the serious flings and innuendoes made by Senator Caraway in public hearing. Mere denial of these is neither an answer nor a refutation.

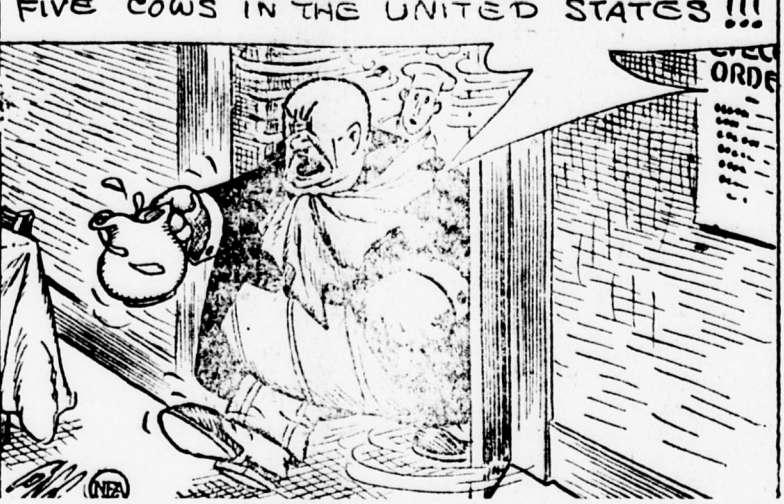

Whether the letting of the oil lease was a good thing or a bad thing from the standpoint of the public interest, the circumstances of the letting of the lease in so far as they show or fail to show disinterested public service should be brought out into the open without reservation. Mr. Fall is not blind

LETTER FROM DR. EBENEZER KNOX TO JOHN ALDEN
PRESCOTT

MY DEAR JOHN:

We are certainly in a kind of mess with your mother and I don't know exactly how to adjust it.

My boy, your mother is not ill in any way. She is hale and strong but, like many women who lead very sheltered lives and grow old in conventions and prejudices, she is very hard to handle.

Priscilla Bradford, who is absolutely a younger addition of your mother with added decorations in the shape of love for scandal mongering and unkindly comments, has helped foster all the bad habits that came down to your mother from her puritanical ancestry.

—Don't for one moment think, Jack, my boy, that I am not fully appreciative of the sterling qualities of that Mayflower stock from which you came, but even as old fogey a doctor as I am I cannot have lived to the threescore years and ten, which the Bible tells is the span of life, without coming to some conclusions that the "world do move" and unless we move with it we are hopelessly out of the procession.

I have viewed with alarm, my boy, your growing away from your mother all these years and I know that in some ways you are to blame, but not as much as she. She has never been able to understand that a man goes out into the world and unless he gets many of his sharp corners of prejudice and egotism rubbed off, he not only will be very unhappy but to the fact that he is on trial at the bar of popular opinion, as well as at the bar of the Senate investigating committee. He is entitled to, and he should be eager to take, his "day in court" and make the best of it in defense against his assailants.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The Riddle Lady said next day in Riddle land, "We have had several winter riddles, so this is a summer riddle. Its about something very small and bright and only seen on a summer night. Listen now Nancy and Nick! Listen everybody! Here's the riddle:

"My home's a garden where the flowers stay wide awake for hours and hours And then at dusk they fold up tight And say good-night."

"But the house I rent—a big, red rose, Is not so sleepy I suppose, Because it does not shut up so! And out I go."

"I am the watchman, if you please. I watch the flowers and garden trees, No one comes in, no one goes out If I'm about."

"My lantern winks and winks and winks, And Mister Moon he blinks and blinks, And so between us both why we watch carefully."

"For fairies and the tricky elves Would just come in and help themselves."

To leaves of this and-buds of that, For dress and hat. "And caterpillars! My, oh, me! They're out for food—to get it free, They'd gobble stems and break off leaves, The greedy thieves!"

"I fly around 'most everywhere, I peep in here I look in there! What would this lovely garden be Were it not for the moon and me?"

"I only go out when it's clear, And never when a storm is near, When thunder crashes home I hug, Although I'm called a lightning bug."

"Oh, dear!" cried Miss Muffet. "If you mean it's a lightning bug I wish you wouldn't say it in front of my daughter. Since that day with the spider, things like that upset her dreadfully."

"But you have just said it yourself," the Riddle Lady exclaimed laughing. "Didn't she Nancy?" "Why I declare! So I have!" declared Miss Muffet. "And she doesn't look a bit nervous. She must be cured."

"Of course I am," said Miss Muffet, speaking up for herself. "And as for lightning bugs, they are lovely. They always remind me of fairies."

"Me, too!" said Nancy. "I love them, cute little things, with their winky, blinky lanterns."

INCOME TAX

Editors Note—Following is one of a series of articles covering provisions of the state income tax law prepared by the state tax department.

No. 1.

WHO IS SUBJECT TO TAX.

The amended state income tax laws of 1923 provides that all persons who reside in the state are subject to the tax on their entire net income even though all or a part of it may be derived from sources outside of North Dakota. Non-resident individuals are not subject to tax. Citizenship has nothing to do with the matter. Every individual who was a resident of the state of January 1, 1923 is subject to the tax on his entire net income received during the calendar year 1923.

Partnerships as such are not subject to tax. The partnership is regarded merely as an association of a number of individuals. The individual partners are subject to tax on their share of the partnership income.

All corporations engaged in business or owning property in this state are subject to the tax unless expressly exempt. The law exempts from taxation corporations organized exclusively for religious, charitable and educational purposes. Also certain other organizations, no part of the net income of which inures to the benefit of any private stockholder.

SAME SCALE SEEN.

Indianapolis, Jan. 29.—After a week in which the insurgent element in the mine workers convention occupied most of the time the delegates generally were showing impatience over further controversy when the second week opened and were looking forward to the report of the scale committee which will meet with operators February 11 to draft a new wage agreement.

President Frank Farrington of Illinois, who heads the scale committee, had indicated that he will be ready to report by the middle of this week and those close to him have ventured a prediction that his committee will recommend that a renewal of the present contract be demanded for a term of four years instead of from year to year as at present. It was also rumored that the committee might include a demand for a 20 per cent increase and a six-hour day clause but would do this only as a concession to the insurgents.

Best information was that the committee does not hope for anything but a renewal of the present wage scale for mine workers and extension of the present working conditions.

SYNOPSIS.

At a first night performance in New York, a beautiful young woman attracts attention by rising and leisurely surveying the audience through her glasses. Clavering, a newspaper columnist, and his cousin, Dinwiddie, are particularly interested. Dinwiddie declaring that she is the image of Mary Ogden, a belle of thirty years ago, who had married a Count Zattiany and lived abroad. He is convinced that this is Mary's daughter, but all efforts to establish her identity prove futile.

Clavering manages to meet her, and she finally tells him she is the Countess Josef Zattiany, a cousin of Mary Ogden's; that she had married a relative of Mary's husband; that Mary is ill in a sanatorium in Vienna.

Clavering does not believe her story and next time he sees her frankly tells her so. As time goes on he becomes so distraught over the whole affair that he finally goes for advice to his friend, Gora Dwight, a young novelist, who assures him that he is in love with Madame Zattiany.

Dinwiddie, meanwhile, has been continuing his investigations and makes the suggestion that Madame Zattiany is in America under an assumed name, possibly hiding from her husband. A few days later Clavering receives an invitation to dine with her alone.

"New York and Atlantic City must seem prosaic." He had never felt so polite. "I suppose you are eager to return?" (Why in hell don't those servants bring the dinner?)

"I have not seen the Alps since two years before the war. Some day—yes! Oh, yes! Shall we sit down?"

The two men entered with enormous dignity bearing plates of oysters as if offering the Holy Grail and the head of Saint John the Baptist on a charger. Impossible to associate class-conscious-

"What were they?" growled Clavering. He remembered with dismay that he hadn't even sent her the usual tribute of flowers. There had been no place in his mind for the small amenities.

"A verboten romance called 'Jürgen.' Why verboten? Because it is too good for the American public? 'Main Street.' For me, it might as well have been written in Greek. 'The Domesday Book.' A great story. 'Seed of the Sun.' To enlighten me on the 'Japanese Question.' 'Cytherea.' Wonderful English. Why is it not also verboten?"

"Even censors must sleep. I that all he sent you?"

"I am waiting for the chocolates—but possibly those are sent only by the very young men to the very young girls."

He glowered at his plate. "Do you like chocolates? I'll send ness with beings who looked as impersonal as fate, and would have regarded a fork out of alignment as a stain on their private scutcheon. They performed the rite of placing the oysters on the table and retired.

Madame Zattiany and Clavering adjusted themselves to the Gothic period. The oysters were succulent. They discussed the weather.

"This was a happy thought," he said. "It feels like a blizzard outside."

"The radiator in the dining room is out of order."

"Oh!"

She was a woman of the world. Why in thunder didn't she make things easier? Had she asked him here merely because she was too bored to eat alone? He hated small talk. There was nothing he wanted less than the personalities of their previous conversations, but she might have entertained him. She was eating her oysters daintily and giving him the benefit of her dark brown eyelashes. Possibly she was merely in the mood for comfortable alliances with an established friend. Well, he was not. Passion had subsided but his nerves jangled.

And inspiration came with the soup and some excellent sherry.

"By the way! Do you remember I asked you—at that last first night—if you wouldn't like to see something of the Sophisticates?"

"The what?"

"Some of them still like to call themselves Intellectuals, but that title—Intellectual—is now claimed by every white collar in Europe who has turned Socialist or Revolutionist. He may have the intellect of a cabbage, but he wants a

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL.

Filmed on Santa Cruz island in the Pacific Ocean, the William Fox production of "The Temple of Venus," is playing a two day engagement at the Capitol theater, where a capacity audience appeared to enjoy it last night. This picture is a spectacle of the unusual sort, showing not only the beauty of nature on the entrancing little Pacific island, but the charms of a thousand west coast bathing girls transplanted by Director Henry Otto. Mary Philbin, Phyllis Haver and David Butler are principals and have the support of a capable cast.

The story compares the lives of two girls, one a native of the island with simple tastes and natural beauty, the other a daughter of New York society, reared in the luxury of all that wealth can acquire. They both love the same man and the story ends happily. That ought to be enough to insure its popularity.

Mrs. Wallace Reid's Purpose Stands Out in Compelling Picture

The predominant feature of "Human Wreckage" shown at the Eltinge for the first time yesterday is the sincerity of Mrs. Wallace Reid who has begun a campaign to check the swiftly spreading tide of drug addiction. The photoplay is not one of sordid tendencies. It is a powerful story of life with a powerful throbbing theme. When one has seen Mrs. Reid as the devoted wife of the prominent lawyer, who, through unfortunate circumstances becomes an addict, and has witnessed the performance of James Kirkwood, as that lawyer who carries on a relentless fight against the forces of narcotics, only to be caught himself in their trap; when one has seen Bessie Love as the little addict mother, who wages a pitifully weak fight against dope for the sake of her helpless offspring, one wonders if ever again by stage or screen, he will see such marvellous acting. It is really an incentive to anyone in the skillful art to pick out one individual and say, here we are the greatest of them all. They are all great. They are all superb. Nor is the picture without its thrills and the mad taxi ride of the dope king driven by one of his victims through the traffic of a crowded city street to destruction in a head on smash with a locomotive characterized as "the ride to Hell" is well named.

"Human Wreckage" will be shown again today and tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Eltinge. The picture is shown under the auspices of the Woman's Community Council for the benefit of the school milk fund.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL.

Filed on Santa Cruz island in the Pacific Ocean, the William Fox production of "The Temple of Venus," is playing a two day engagement at the Capitol theater, where a capacity audience appeared to enjoy it last night. This picture is a spectacle of the unusual sort, showing not only the beauty of nature on the entrancing little Pacific island, but the charms of a thousand west coast bathing girls transplanted by Director Henry King. Mary Philbin, Phyllis Haver and David Butler are principals and have the support of a capable cast.

The story compares the lives of two girls, one a native of the island with simple tastes and natural beauty, the other a daughter of New York society, reared in the luxury of all that wealth can acquire. They both love the same man and the story ends happily. That ought to be enough to insure its popularity.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

GOOD NEWS FOR NORTH DAKOTA
The North Dakotan who has seen government financiers rushing to South Dakota and has noticed that North Dakota has been omitted in the discussion of the serious condition facing states to the south has been gratified that this state has escaped the unfavorable advertising they have received. The difference, however, is that North Dakota has long since passed the peak of her troubles while they are just beginning to the south. And while they were confined to the smaller financial institutions in North Dakota they began with the larger in South Dakota, chiefly through the inflation of land values creating a fictitious borrowing power and lack of warning in time to head off impending danger.

A member of the Federal Reserve staff in Minneapolis has said that North Dakota passed the peak of her depression in December, 1922, and has slowly been on the menu since that time. Whatever setbacks seem apparent now are more than offset by gains which may not be so apparent.

North Dakotans who are studying the situation are impressed not so much by the immediate factors as those which are potent in building a new and more firm structure of agricultural and industrial life in the state. For example, in spite of the widespread talk that North Dakota farmers are leaving the farms in droves, in spite of pessimistic reports and unfortunate situations met by many individuals, the United States Department of Agriculture study of livestock conditions in North Dakota as of January 1, 1924, is distinctly encouraging.

Gains made during the past year include 85,000 more hogs on the farms, 30,000 more milk cows, 14,000 more sheep, about the same number of beef cattle. This increase could not come were farmers leaving the farms in large numbers. It could not come if the great bulk of the North Dakota farmers were broke or had lost complete faith in the state. It could not come if the farmers did not see that the future lies in diversified farming. Livestock prices, except on sheep, have been discouraging. Milk prices continue above the usual level. Shipments of corn, shipments of "finished" stock instead of grass stock to market means a great gain for the livestock industry on the farms of North Dakota.

A wheat failure in North Dakota never will be as serious again as it has been in the past. A great wheat crop will not be the bonanza it has in times past because it will not be the only crop of the farmers. But the gains from balanced farming are certain; a sure livelihood, a certain and moderate prosperity, a busy and contented people—all these are North Dakota's in the future.

And when the farmers to the south of the state learn of the results of the North Dakota Corn Show, when they find out they can raise corn on $30 an acre land as good as they can raise on $150 and $200 an acre land in their own states, they are going to see the advantage in settling on North Dakota's fertile prairies.

A LITTLE SERIOUS THINKING NEEDED
A group of United States Senators telegraphed an appeal to Northwestern states asking farmers to meet in precinct meetings and decide what farm relief they want.

We hazard a guess that many will reply: "Less bunk and a little more serious thinking."

The farmers of North Dakota, who are intelligent and studious, no doubt could give some good advice to Congress. But it is almost an insult to them for their elected representatives, who have every facility at their command for the study of farm problems and the assistance of experts, to avoid their plain duty by seeking to have the men back home make decisions for them. It smacks of a fear on the part of politicians to face the facts in Washington and an endeavor to find an excuse for their actions in advance.

There are many farm relief measures in Washington—the Coulter plan bill, the Norris-Sinclair marketing bill, the McNary-Haugen marketing bill, and plans to utilize various government financial agencies. Congress has been spending much time on them and the senators ought to know their own minds. Many of the statements which have been made indicate that opposition to various measures arises from political motives.

After all there is too much economic soothing-syrup proposed. Many farmers are beginning to gag. They are getting weary of being continually "saved."

ARBuckle "COMES BACK"
So "Fatty" Arbuckle is back in the movies—as a director for Buster Keaton. The news dispatch from Los Angeles says Arbuckle's name on the screen will be changed to Will B. Good.

Human nature is perplexing. Many, who would object to Arbuckle returning as an actor, will consider it all right for him to have a job in another branch of picture-making, though one is as mechanical as another when the film gets to the public. He can be a cook but not a waiter, seems to be the system.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK
John Moody, one of the three best professional business forecasters, predicts that times will be much better at the end of 1924 than at the close of 1923. Look for a decided pick-up, along about June, Moody says.

When another big boom is coming, you will know it about 90 days ahead, in a runaway stock market with prices soaring. Usually preceded by temporary rises, followed by drops, to lure suckers and then wipe out their margins.

"CLEAN-UPS"
In 13 leading cities the police recently have been conducting spectacular "clean-ups," chiefly against gamblers and bootleggers. Such waves of activity sweep over the country periodically, especially after elections.
Clean-up activity is commendable. All laws should be enforced. But one wonders why the "clean-ups" aren't continual. Crime is.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides being discussed in the press of the day.

STATE OWNERSHIP AND PRIVATE INDUSTRY

The permanent closing of three large mills in North Dakota, the largest of the three being at Jamestown, the alleged chief cause of such action being inability of the privately owned mills to compete successfully against the state owned mill, seems bound to bring into the foreground once more, the controversy between the friends and the critics of state socialism which raged in North Dakota so violently from 1913 to 1919. The gains and the losses from the experiment will be checked up, conclusions drawn, and it will be difficult to keep the question out of the coming political campaigns.

Friends of state ownership will argue that the "program" has not yet been given a fair trial, while critics will point out that the avowed purpose of the state mill was to raise the price of wheat to the grower and lower the price of flour to the consumer, has failed utterly in fact, and that instead, the mill is proving a costly experiment to the people, as well as driving out of business one of the largest private industries in the state and one that pays heavy taxes to support the state government, schools, roads, etc.

At the time of the recent convention, the farmers of the independent Voters Association platform decided it the wiser and fairer policy to include in the platform a compromise, namely to complete the state flour mill at Grand Forks and give it a trial. This has been done, and while the trial has been brief, a demand will be made for an accounting, an audit of gains and losses, benefits and detriments.

The people of North Dakota will ask themselves whether they wish further trial of the socialistic theory that state ownership of the larger industries will give a better distribution and better production of wealth than now prevails, or whether it would not be wiser for the people to stand once more for private ownership under private initiative, and for commercial competition of free individuals with fair supervision or regulation by the central government. The present desire of a large and outspoken number undoubtedly is for the least possible interference between private individuals or incorporated groups of private individuals, and it seems impossible to convert their minds into any confidence that state socialism can ever succeed or that it will accomplish its purported aim to convert into general benefit what is now the gain of the comparatively few.

The people of the state and the tax payers, both friends and critics of the socialistic experiment will think deeply on this problem during the next few months—Jamestown Alert.

WAITING TO HEAR FROM MR. FALL

Albert B. Fall, formerly Secretary of the Interior who has been summoned by subpoena process to appear as a witness before the Senate committee which is investigating the lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to a private company, says he will go to Washington and make a full statement of his connection with the affair and of the facts as he knows them.

This is well, but how much better it would have been for Mr. Fall's own sake if he had anticipated the formal legal summons by going voluntarily to Washington before or after Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas, had made his public charges of alleged official corruption in connection with the letting of the lease, and demanding the opportunity to tell his story.

Whatever may be the truth about the lease, it was placed long ago by critics and politicians in verbal settings that gave it all the outward aspects of a national scandal. These commentators have repeatedly made Mr. Fall the foreground figure and outstanding object of their ugly portraiture. Under the circumstances Mr. Fall's best and most faithful friends can only feel optimistic that he made a serious mistake in not going to Washington and insisting to the committee that he be heard in a frank and full presentation of his side of the case. Instead of that he has elected to assume an attitude that unmistakably places him in a disparaging light in the popular mind.

The resignation of Archie Roosevelt from the vice presidency of the lessee oil company, and his public statement that he severed his relations with the company because he had "learned some things which, while not proven facts as yet, corroborated certain suspicions I entertain" make it even more imperative than before that the truth about the lease should be found and made public. Roosevelt's action was bound to have the effect of strengthening any surmises of wrongdoing outsiders may have had.

The shadow that rests on Mr. Fall has been deepened. He is the one man above all others to whom the public looks now for a clearing away of doubts and for an answer to the serious flings and innuendoes made by Senator Caraway in public hearing. Mere denial of the fact is neither an answer nor a revelation.

Whether the letting of the oil lease was a good thing or a bad thing from the standpoint of the public interest, the circumstances of the letting of the lease in so far as they show or fail to show disinterested public service should be brought out into the open without reservation. Mr. Fall is not blind

MY DEAR JOHN:

We are certainly in a kind of mess with your mother and I don't know exactly how to adjust it.

My boy, your mother is not ill in any way. She is hale and strong but, like many women who lead very sheltered lives and grow old in conventions and prejudices, she is very hard to handle.

Priscilla Bradford, who is absolutely a younger addition of your mother with added decorations in the shape of love for scandal mongering and unkindly comments, has helped foster all the bad habits that came down to your mother from her puritanical ancestry.

Don't for one moment think, Jack, my boy, that I am not fully appreciative of the sterling qualities of that Mayflower stock from which you came, but even as old fogey a doctor as I am I cannot have lived to the threescore years and ten, which the Bible tells us is the span of life, without coming to some conclusions as to the "world do move" and wailing we move with it we are hopelessly out of the procession.

I have view'd with alarm, my boy, your growing away from your mother all these years and I know that in some ways you are to blame, but not as much as she. She has never been able to understand that a man goes out into the world and, unless he gets many of his sharp corners of prejudice and egotism rubbed off, he not only will be very unhappy but to the fact that he is on trial at the bar of popular opinion, as well as at the bar of the Senate investigating committee. He is entitled to be so, and he should be eager to take the best of it in defense against his assailants.

Mr. Fall is not today under condemnation. He is only under fire. Political enemies are taking advantage of positions of immunity to scourge him unduly on an insufficient basis of ascertained facts, but he may count on his friends to stand by him just as long as he shows himself worthy of their support and loyalty.

His own honor has been challenged, and beyond that the worthy traditions of Cabinet stewardship through the years are brought into the shadow. — MINNEAPOLIS TRIBUNE.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The Riddle Lady said next day in Riddle Land, "We have had several winter riddles, so this is a summer riddle. It's about something very small and bright and only seen on a summer night. Listen now Nancy and Nick! Listen everybody! Here's the riddle:

"My home's a garden where the flowers stay wide awake for hours and hours. And then at dusk they fold up tight and say good-night."

"But the house I rent—a big, red rose, is not so sleepy I suppose. Because it does not shut up so! And out I go."

"I am the watchman, if you please. I watch the flowers and garden trees. No one comes in, no one goes out if I'm about."

"My lantern winks and winks and winks, And Mister Moon he blinks and blinks, And so between us both why we watch carefully."

"For fairies and the tricky elves Would just come in and help themselves. To leaves of this and buds of that, For dress and hat."

"And caterpillars! My, oh me! They're out for food—to get it free. They'd gobble stems and break off leaves. The greedy thieves!"

"I fly around 'most everywhere, I peep in here I look in there! What would this lovely garden be Were it not for the moon and me?"

"I only go out when it's clear. And never when a storm is near. When thunder crashes home I hug. Although I'm called a lightning bug."

"Oh, dear!" cried Misses Muffet. "If you mean it's a lightning bug I wish you wouldn't say it in front of my daughter. Since that day with the spider, things like that upset her dreadfully."

"But you have just said it yourself," the Riddle Lady claimed laughing. "Didn't she Nancy?"

"Why I declare! So I have!" declared Misses Muffet. "And she doesn't look a bit nervous. She must be cured."

"Of course I am," said Miss Muffet, speaking up for herself. "And as for lightning bugs, they are lovely. They always remind me of fairies."

"Too!" said Nancy. "I love them, cute little things, with their winky, blinky lanterns."

INCOME TAX

Editors Note—Following is one of a series of articles covering provisions of the state income tax laws prepared by the state tax department.

No. 1.

WHO IS SUBJECT TO TAX.

The amended state income tax laws of 1923 provides that all persons who reside in the state are subject to the tax on their entire net income even though all or a part of it may be derived from sources outside of North Dakota.

Non-resident individuals are not subject to tax. Citizenship has nothing to do with the matter. Every individual who was a resident of the state of January 1st of the tax year is subject to the tax. The term "tax year" means the calendar year in which the tax is payable. Every individual who was a resident of the state on January 1, 1924, is subject to the tax on his entire net income received during the calendar year 1923.

Partnerships as such are not subject to tax. The partnership is regarded merely as an association of a number of individuals. The individual members of a partnership are subject to tax.

All corporations engaged in business or owning property in this state are subject to the tax unless expressly exempt. The law exempts from taxation corporations organized exclusively for religious, charitable, and educational purposes. Also certain other organizations not less than the benefit of any private stockholder.

SAME SCALE SEEN.

Indianapolis, Jan. 29.—After a week in which the insurgent element in the mine workers convention occupied most of the time the delegates generally were showing impatience for further controversy when the second week opened and were looking forward to the report of the scale committee which will meet with operators February 11 to draft a new wage agreement.

President Frank Farrington of Illinois, who heads the scale committee, had indicated that he will be ready to report by the middle of this week and prediction that his committee will recommend that a renewal of the present contract be demanded for a term of four years instead of from year to year as at present. It was also rumored that the committee might include a demand for a 20 per cent increase and a six-hour day clause but would do this only as a threat to the operators.

Best information was that the committee does not hope for anything but a renewal of the present wage scale for mine workers and extension of the present working conditions.

SYNOPSIS.

At a first night performance in New York, a beautiful young woman attracts attention by rising and leisurely surveying the audience through her glasses. Clavering, a newspaper columnist, and his cousin, Dinwiddie, are particularly interested. Dinwiddie declares that she is the image of Mary Ogden, a belle of thirty years ago, who had married a Count Zattiany and lived abroad. He is convinced that this is Mary's daughter, but all efforts to establish her identity prove futile.

Clavering manages to meet her, and she finally tells him she is the Countess Josef Zattiany, a cousin of Mary Ogden; that she had married a relative of Mary's husband; that Mary is ill in a sanatorium in Vienna.

Clavering does not believe her story and next time he sees her frankly tells her so. As time goes on he becomes so distraught over the whole affair that he finally goes for advice to his friend, Gora Dwight, a young novelist, who assures him that he is in love with Madame Zattiany.

Dinwiddie, meanwhile, has been continuing his investigations and makes the suggestion that Madame Zattiany is in America under an assumed name, possibly hiding from her husband. A few days later Clavering receives an invitation to dine with her alone.

"New York and Atlantic City must seem prosaic." He had never felt so polite. "I suppose you are eager to return?" (Why in hell don't those servants bring the dinner?)

"Two years before the Alps since two years before the war. Some day—yes! Oh, yes! Shall we sit down?"

The two men entered with enormous dignity bearing plates of oysters as if offering the Holy Grail and the head of Saint John the Baptist on a charger. Impossible to associate class-consciousness

"What were they?" growled Clavering. He remembered with dismay that he hadn't even sent her the usual tribute of flowers. There had been no place in his mind for the small amenities.

"A verboten romance called 'Jürgen.' Why verboten? Because it is too good for the American public? 'Main Street.' For me, it might as well have been written in Greek. 'The Domesday Book.' A great story. 'Seed of the Sun.' To enlighten me on the 'Japanese Question.' 'Cytherea.' Wonderful! English. Why is it not also verboten?"

"Even censors must sleep. It that all he sent you?"

"I am waiting for the chocolates—but possibly these are sent only by the very young men to the very young girls."

He glowered at his plate. "Do you like chocolates? I'll send

"The name Marie doesn't suit you. If ever I know you well enough I shall call you Mary."

ness with beings who looked as impersonal as fate, and would have regarded a fork out of alignment as a stain on their private scutcheon. They performed the rite of placing the oysters on the table and retired.

Madame Zattiany and Clavering adjusted themselves to the Gothic period. The oysters were succulent. They discussed the weather. "This was a happy thought," he said. "It feels like a blizzard outside."

"The radiator in the dining room is out of order."

"Oh!"

She was a woman of the world. Why in thunder didn't she make things easier? Had she asked him, merely because she was too bored to eat alone? He hated small talk. There was nothing he wanted less than the perfunctories of those preface conversations, but she might have entertained him. She was eating her oysters daintily and giving him the benefit of her dark brown eyelashes. Possibly she was merely in the mood for comfortable silences with an established friend. Well, he was not. Passion had subsided but his nerves flared.

And inspiration came with the soup and some excellent sherry. "By the way! Do you remember I asked you—at that last first-night—if you wouldn't like to see something of the Sophisticates?"

"The what?"

"Some of them still like to call themselves Intellectuals, but that title—Intellectual—is now claimed by every white collar in Europe who has turned Socialist or Revolutionary. He may have the intellect of a cabbage, but he wants a

"Countess Loyos?"

"Yes—know her?"

"Mathilde Loyos? She is one of my oldest friends."

"No doubt you'd like to see her. I can get her address for you."

"There is nothing I want less than to see her. Not any one else from Austria—at present."

Sunday School "Pepped" Up

By NEA Service
Columbia, Mo., Jan. 29.—Nightly, jazz parties to the contrary, every one of the boys and girls at Stephens College, here, is sure to attend Sunday school every week.
This is because Miss Jessie Burrell of the college has made the study even more alluring than jazz.
A ten-piece orchestra furnishes music for peppy singing. She features special Sundays, some of which she has named "Red Heads Day," "Date Sunday," for which the boys are supposed to make appointments with the girls, and so on.
Half an hour before the assembly serenaders tour the city in a truck, on which is a piano, and serenade the fraternity and sorority houses. It gets them out.

Teachers Are Happy Now

Windsor, Eng.—Frank and Willie Allen, twins, looked alike, dressed alike and talked alike. From the day they started to school here, they had their masters guessing. To make matters worse, their marks always were the same. If Frank failed, Willie failed. But now their teachers are sighing with relief. Willie has outstripped Frank in spelling and has been promoted to a higher form. And Frank has got the edge on Willie in athletics. So now it's not half so difficult to tell them apart.

LIVESTOCK SALES HELP FARM ASSETS

Survey Covering Several Townships Is Made by N. D. Ag. College Man

VARIES IN SIZE

Net Worth of Tenants, However, Does Not Change Much as Size Increases

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 29.—The average net assets of farm owners in an area covering four townships of the county is $29,100, and the average net worth of tenants in the same area is $12,200, according to a survey completed by Rex L. Willard, farm economist at the North Dakota Agricultural college.

These figures are the result of a survey made recently in Foster county under Mr. Willard's direction. Every farm in three of the townships was covered in the survey, and a portion of the fourth township was also covered.

"We believe that the survey represents the conditions over a wide area, equivalent to more than one-half the area of the state of North Dakota," says Mr. Willard. One hundred six farms were included in the survey. Sixty-one owners and 45 tenants were listed.

The average size of all farms surveyed is 277 acres; the average size of owned farms is 128 acres, and these owners own 191 acres additional; tenant farms average 549 acres each. Crops occupy 81 percent of the farm area, and pasture, 17 percent. Wheat occupies 217 acres, or 17 percent of the crop area.

The yield of crops in 1923 was approximately 11 percent below the five-year average. The five-year average yield of wheat was 82 bushels; of oats, 21 bushels; of barley, 16 bushels; and of flax, 7.2 bushels. Corn was the only crop that maintained the average in 1923, the average yield being 18 bushels of fodder or 21 bushels of corn.

Value of Livestock

The average value of livestock per farm in the area is $17,000. However, a greater investment in livestock than have tenants. One farm had no stock except horses, and 50 out of 106 had five milk cows or less. On 21 farms there were no brood cows, and four farms had no poultry whatever. Only 13 farms out of 106 had sheep.

The average number of work horses per farm is 1.5; of milk cows, 6.5; of brood sows, 1.5; and of poultry, 121. Owners have a relatively higher number than have tenants of all classes of stock except of hogs, which are greater in number of tenant farms. One farmer handled 100 head of poultry.

'SELF-DELUSION' BLAMED FOR BREAK IN 'GOSSIP BARRIER' OF PASTOR

MRS. CHARLOTTE LELAND, ABOVE, WHO IS BEING SUED FOR DIVORCE, ON CHARGES INVOLVING AN OAK PARK MINISTER, AND REV. CARL D. CASE, THE ACCUSED PASTOR, WHO DECLARES HER CHARGES ARE 'SELF-DELUSION.'

Chicago, Jan. 29.—Only if clergyman's wife knows how eagerly certain people wait to pounce upon the reputation of a minister of the gospel.

She knows from whence blows the hot breath of scandal, leaving behind the charred remains of a good name.

She knows the "church buzzards" who wait for every scrap of gossip. And how she must be constantly guarding her husband against these forces, is a most interesting sidelight to the ugly charges and intimations concerning Rev. Carl D. Case, of the fashionable Oak Park Baptist Church.

Case is a divorced man, corresponding in a divorce action filed by Albert H. Leland against Charlotte Leland. Mrs. Leland has signed a certain "confession" of alleged affectionate relations.

That is one story. But Mrs. Case's statement of how such situations are complicated is another.

"My husband would not visit a woman on a parish call, particularly at night—without taking me along. There are many foolish and imprudent things he has done."

"Allowing a woman to study unless the door was left open. There are so many who jump at conclusions."

And now that the hint of scandal has come upon Dr. Case in spite of protective barriers, it is to the non-believers that Dr. Case goes for help. Dr. Case is branded a "self-delusion" given to self-delusion. And such will be the evidence the defense will present in court.

The entire charge, according to the defense theory, is based upon imagination.

In the case of the early church the woman would have been classed as a "self-delusion" of a petulant spirit which had no right to be there.

WOMAN FAILS TO WIN CHILD IN LONG FIGHT

Former Golden Valley County Woman Loses Out in Los Angeles

HER STORY IS TOLD

Under a Los Angeles date, a staff writer tells a story linked with North Dakota and showing that the statute of limitations can run counter to a mother's love as well as against the law.

"Unique in the history of American jurisprudence," says the correspondent, "was the decision ordered yesterday in the records of Los Angeles county by Superior Court Judge Edwin F. Hahn."

With the decision, Mrs. Lura Livermore-Johnson is unsuccessful in her permanent legal battle to obtain custody of 13-year-old Dorothy Livermore, and there is unfolded a heart-throb drama of the Dakota plains.

"Thirteen years ago near the then little settlement of Beach, N. D., a young and unmarried woman was travelling in pain. Her mother and a country doctor were the only people at her side. The man responsible for her condition was not there."

Told Baby Was Dead

The young woman, Lura Livermore, was unconscious when the baby, a girl, was born. When she regained consciousness and felt for her child her mother indicated out the window. In the yard was a freshly piled mound, marking a tiny grave.

What the grandmother meant to tell by inferring that the child was dead was not true. A number of miles away across the wind-swept prairie, Carlson Agard, a bachelor farmer, was stirring himself to begin his chores at the break of day. As he cooked his meager breakfast he heard a plaintive wailing and traced it to his front door. Here he found, closely bundled, a new-born baby.

In his perplexity Agard took the child to his nearest neighbor, Mrs. Ella Holmberg. Mrs. Holmberg had four daughters of her own and while she would have welcomed a boy, she did not want another girl.

"Strange is the working of destiny. While Mrs. Holmberg and Agard debated the problem a passing farmer brought a letter to Mrs. Holmberg. It was from Beach, N. D., and told that her sister, Mrs. George W. Richardson, the wife of a justice of the peace, was not expected to live. She had given birth to a baby, it had died but Mrs. Richardson was unconscious and did not know of this.

"When Mrs. Richardson regained consciousness a few days later and asked to see her baby a dimpled, rosy-cheeked girl was put on her arm. Sister Takes Child

OWN 'DON JUAN'

Ludwig Lewisohn, noted writer and critic, whose marital troubles have raised the question of a young and beautiful woman? Mrs. Lewisohn declares the author found such a woman. Recently Lewisohn wrote a novel, 'Don Juan,' which appears to parallel his own love life and which is said to have been written to force his wife into taking divorce action.

A. Barton, poultry specialist at the North Dakota Agricultural college. Cost of production experiments were run at the college poultry house for ten months and careful records kept of all feed given and all eggs laid.

The total feed bill for this period amounted to $59.42. Scratch feed cost $31.64; mash cost $19.22; oyster shells and grit $1.33; charcoal 25 cents; straw $7. The straw bill would not be one that the average farmer would have to meet as most farmers have straw that would be available for pests and for the floor of the poultry house. Scratch feed bill also could be reduced under farm conditions, thinks Mr. Walden, as much of the feed that the flock would pick up around the barnyard and nearby fields would otherwise be wasted. The total egg production was 121 dozen or 5,655 eggs. This makes an average production per hen for the ten-month period of 102.4 eggs.

With the total cost of $59.42 and with a maximum production of 121 dozen eggs the cost of producing each dozen amounts to 14.1 cents, the records show. The average price received by the college poultryman for eggs sold during this period is 31 cents which leaves a margin of 16.9 cents. The average cost of keeping one hen for this period is found to be $1.20.

"There is a human law to be considered here," said the judge. Turning to little Dorothy he asked, whom do you really love?"

"Mrs. Taylor," replied Dorothy tearfully.

Turning then to the real mother, Judge Hahn said:

"I am sorry indeed, but the statute of limitation has run against your mother here. Dorothy must remain where she is."

VALLEY CITY BUSINESSMEN IN MINNESOTA STUDYING DAIRYING

Minneapolis, Jan. 29.—Business men of Valley City, N. D., inspired by the Dairy Special train that carried the message of better farming and more dairying but over the line of the Northern Pacific railway last summer, are determined now to promote the dairy business in a more active way than ever.

They have sent to the Twin Cities, T. Melvin Lee, president of the Midwestern Trust company, and T. X. Calnan, agricultural agent of Barnes county, to investigate the possibilities of the dairying industry of Minnesota, and the best form of a creamery to establish in Valley City.

Represent Joint Committee

These two men are members of a joint committee of eight, representing both the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs, which was appointed recently at the suggestion of Darby O'Malley, of the Rotary club there. He pointed out in a recent meeting that the North Dakota city, while surrounded with good farms, and a promising dairying industry with several thousand dairy cows, is without a local creamery, except a very small one. A number of cream stations are buying Valley City's cream, and shipping it out of the state.

The two committee members were introduced to creamery experts and dairy leaders of the Twin Cities Saturday by H. M. Byerly, general immigration agent of the Northern Pacific railway, and Charles F. Colliason, agricultural editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, and will visit several other towns in southern Minnesota this week to see how Minnesota's co-operative company industry has been developed.

Dairy Farming Growing

From their report, action will be taken on their return, toward establishing some sort of creamery in their home city.

"The dairy farming of our country," says Mr. Calnan, "is developing rapidly, particularly since wheat prices have been ruinous, and wheat yields are declining, the good old dairy cow has come into fashionable society."

Farmers who always scorned the idea of being tied down to the milk stool and are saying 'Hurrah' for old Brindle, Bell and Boss. Whenever one of them begins showing off his cream checks, the others are soon ready to follow.

"We have plenty of cows already, to insure the success of a creamery of good capacity, and feel that the prosperity of our community will be increased tremendously, if we establish a good local market for their cream."

There is an unlimited amount of such material available, says Dean Keene, and it would be of real service to the people of the state. Our plan is to devote two evenings a week to the broadcasting of information of this type and the other evening to informative or inspirational addresses.

The station at the college has now been in operation about a year. Preparation was begun in September, 1922, but regular programs were not attempted until toward the new year of 1923.

The original apparatus has worked continuously with only minor adjustment, Dean Keene says. The aerial is located where it receives the greatest violence of the storms and will need to be renewed. A new antenna of different form from the original is being constructed in the college shops, which it is expected will give more satisfactory service.

The cost of the station apparatus and installation was $1100, exclusive of the masts. The entire station is valued at $1800. Repairs and replacement for the first year amounted to less than $100.

During the fall term connections were made with the band organs of the music building to give space for larger musical organizations. Temporary connection is also made with the Little Country Theatre and the armory.
